Detailed description How it works This program is an advanced tool for copying a selection of files from the local computer to a USB flash disk (or memory card). The file contents are duplicated on to the USB flash disk. Before you copy the files to the USB flash disk, the Program checks that the selected files are indeed valid and that they are not part of a security program or locking software like Windows Defender. You can copy multiple files at once, and the files are copied over to the USB flash disk, one by one. The Program also supports copying files to the USB flash disk on multiple occasions, and deletes the files from the USB flash disk again. It's easy to set the options on the fly using the dialog boxes. The dialog boxes This program offers you several dialog boxes to set the options you want. Options The Options dialog box offers you several useful options.
